

Miranda House

UNIVERSITY OF DELHI

Internal Academic Audit

Department: Sanskrit

Academic Year: 2021-22 (from 1 July 2021 to 30 June 2022)

Strength

- The department employs a committed, versatile and highly qualified teaching faculty. The department puts great efforts in the holistic development of the students. Educational tours, seminars, workshops, inter and intra college competitions are frequently organised to help the students in exploring their true potentials. The mentor-mentorship program has further enhanced student-teacher relationship where the students are able to work through their concerns. The students and teachers make use of E-Resources and keep up with the digital age through blogs, webpages and YouTube. Sanskrit as a subject encompasses all areas of our lives thus the department encourages critical thinking and practical application of the through its various efforts.

Challenges

- The university classes resumed to its normalcy after an abrupt break of two years due to the COVID 19 Pandemic. The department resorted to OBE as ordained by the University but to bridge the gap between the students and the traditional teaching, training and testing methodologies has been a huge challenge.

Weakness

- The department attracts students from all over India across multiple disciplines. However, some students do not pose any prior learning experience in Sanskrit language. Thus, they face difficulty in understanding the texts.

Future plans

- The department is working towards organising international seminars and workshops under the aegis of ICSSR and Sahitya Academy. We also plan on releasing our own magazine in near future. The departmental website is under construction and soon will be published with all relevant academic texts and articles as per the NEP to provide the students with additional resources.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Nisha', with a horizontal line underneath it.

Dr. Nisha Vashishta

Coordinator, IQAC